

Editorial Statement

In the previous Editorial Statement it was indicated that this would be the final issue of The Individual Psychologist. The creation of the Adlerian Psychology Journal, however, has been delayed until 1982. Therefore, there will be one more year of The Individual Psychologist. Due to increased mailing and printing costs, there will be only two issues in Volume 18.

The quality of the manuscripts being received by the Editorial Board is improving. We are working hard at presenting a variety of interesting articles that show the diverse applications of Adlerian Psychology. This issue includes strategies for working with couples, adolescents, parents, families, and an assessment procedure. A complete index to The Individual Psychologist is also provided. Please contact any of the Editorial staff with content suggestions for future issues.
