

From Our Friends

The Internationale Zeitschrift Für Individual Psychologie is in its twentieth year. Its publication was only interrupted through the German occupation of Austria and the war. It contains important articles about the theory and application of Individual Psychology, material which is available nowhere else. Vienna still has the philosophers of the Adlerian school, and anyone who is deeply interested in Adlerian Psychology should not miss this opportunity to inform himself about the growing scope of Adler's philosophy. The papers are published either in German or English and have a summary in English and French, if written in German, so that everyone can benefit.

The Journal is in danger of being discontinued unless more support, particularly from the United States, is forthcoming. Subscription can be obtained through Walter J. Johnson, 125 East 23rd Street, New York 10, N.Y. Your support is urgently requested.

Paul Brodsky of Los Angeles suggests that our members and friends help the Zeitschrift and make its continuation possible by taking a subscription and donating it to a public library of their community, a college or university, or any other institution interested in research. Many workers in the field are interested in keeping up with the development of Individual Psychology and may be particularly interested in the development abroad. They have no access to the material unless it is available in libraries.

Paul Rom, the provisional international Secretary of the Adlerian movement publishes the Individual Psychology Newsletter in London. This newsletter is sent monthly to all subscribers for $1.00 a year. He is in contact with all national groups and leading Adlerians throughout the world, printing information about them and discussing questions important to all of us, in our effort to form an international Adlerian Society. He also announces regularly all important books and papers published by Adlerians anywhere. His address is 39, The Vale, London N.W. 11, England.
